THE FASTEST WAY TO THE SLOPES THIS WINTER WITH AIR PARTNER

- Air Partner, the leading private aviation company, offers clients the fastest and most efficient route to the slopes this season
- Over the last week metres of snow have fallen in the mountains meaning perfect conditions for those looking to book a quick skiing break

London, UK, XX January 2018: Private jet travel during the winter period is increasing year on year and Air Partner, the global leader in private aviation, provides clients with the fastest and smartest route to the slopes this winter. January snowfall has been so vast that many resorts in the Alps are getting close to record snow depths. Air Partner's 24/7 global support team, dedicated Account Managers, unrivalled JetCard programme and superb service allow clients to cut down their travel time and get closer to ski resorts than commercial scheduled services.

"We provide our clients with the upmost attention to detail and service to allow them to enjoy their trip without the hassle of having to plan their journey themselves. Our access to smaller airports and tailored in-flight experiences offer clients the quickest and most comfortable route to the slopes this winter," said Julia Timms, Chief Marketing Officer, Air Partner.

Air Partner's flexibility represents the great advantage of private aviation, as clients can provide little notice before deciding to book to make sure they get to the slopes for those perfect conditions and unspoilt snow. Clients flying using JetCard can organise their trip in as few as 24 hours' notice to make sure they reach the slopes to enjoy the perfect snowfall. Flying privately offers clients personal and convenient travel as they receive unparalleled attention to their individual needs and desires. Clients can avoid long check in and security queues arriving at an airport minutes, not hours, in advance of their departure.

Those travelling by private jet to the slopes can also access smaller resorts and get even closer to their final destination meaning they can spend more time skiing. For those who want to enjoy every minute on the slopes, a helicopter transfer from the airport can also be arranged.

The Cessna Citation XLS is the most popular jet used when visiting the slopes and has flown over 300 times to France, Austria and Switzerland. Air Partner has seen more than a 50% increase in both distance and time flown during the early winter season in 2017 when compared to the same period in 2016.

Some of Air Partner's most popular destinations and itineraries include; Lech, Verbier, Courchevel and Vail. Clients keen to experience Olympic skiing slopes, eat at Michelin star restaurants and explore the mountainous region can fly at their leisure into smaller airports such as Innsbruck and Chambéry Airports this season.

Bookings can be made either through Air Partner's client services team or through the JetCard programme, which was recently ranked by Conklin & de Decker as the most flexible membership programme in the industry, for the fourth consecutive year. Air Partner's JetCard offers clients an unrivalled jet solution with 24/7 global coverage year-round. Clients who use the JetCard only pay for the time they fly with no hidden fees with flight hours that never expire and fully-refundable account balances. With access to ten times as many airports as restricting scheduled services and the latest aircraft models, Air Partner can provide clients with the fastest route to the slopes this winter.
